

BIOGRAPHY

Meet Hexes & Ohs.

The story of Hexes & Ohs spans years of couple-hood and musical projects. 2005 saw the release of their debut album Goodbye Friend, Welcome Lover, which reached the 2nd position on the Canadian campus radio charts, remaining in the top 10 for several months. CBC Radio 3 named "Whadaya Know?" one of their top 50 singles of the year. The rapid success of Goodbye opened doors for Hexes & Ohs. They have played the CMJ Music Marathon, Pop Montreal, Canadian Music Week, NorthByNorthEast, Halifax Pop Explosion, and Osheaga and have opened for Mates of State, Sloan, Kid Koala and Tokyo Police Club. The 2008 Canadian release of their sophomore album Bedroom Madness has brought the duo to new levels of success. Hexes have toured Canada, quickly topping national campus radio charts and garnering coverage from major media outlets including ELLE Canada, the Toronto Star and Chart magazine. Videos for singles "H-H-Highschool" and "Little Bird" have been in rotation at MuchMusic and MTV Canada and have accumulated nearly 50,000 views on YouTube.

PRESS

"... Lam and Donnelly delight throughout by introducing bittersweet boy/girl harmonies into the slippery mix of post-punk thud, newfangled dancefloor electronics and unapologetic pop savvy pioneered years ago by ancestors such as New Order and Depeche Mode."
- Toronto Star

"heartfelt boy-girl synth-pop that sounds like the Submarines collided with Woodhands. Slick synth production combined with propulsive dance beats back the couple's cooing back-and-forth vocal harmonies and melodic, indie-rock-influenced guitar work. NNNN"
- NOW Toronto

"... multi-hued arrangements, and a ceaseless flow of alluring hooks. It's hard to pick favourites when so many stand out on this major-league effort"
- Textura Magazine

"The world's cutest "longtime couple" have put some of the warmest, sweetest synth-pop songs in the genre's existence."
- SEE Magazine

““Bedroom Madness” is here! One of the most anticipated releases to come out this year comes from this duo made up of two talented individuals”

- CBC Radio 3 (New Music Canada - Featured Artist)

“It doesn’t take a band full of hands to create slick, modest electro-pop - the longtime couple provided their music with the clarity, structure and gentle care it needed to distinguish itself. This is well-parented stuff: happy, buoyant and secure. 4/5

- the Hour

“given the spike in confidence and pop appeal plainly audible on their new record, Bedroom Madness, this is definitely a duo on the rise.”

- Montreal Mirror

“... they’ve taken cues from the best in the business — “Suspicion” and the horn-inflected “Try So Hard” are the best songs The Postal Service never wrote. Bedroom Madness is an impressive studio debut that chronicles all the joy and insecurity of puppy love. 4/5

- EYE Weekly

“Pop gems, dominated by the lush guitar sounds. It’s a kind of triumphant nerd rock that sets toes tapping and keeps you chewing out a rhythm with your bubblegum.”

- FFWD

“(Bedroom Madness) solidifies the band’s super-trendy sound. Their music is filled with the optimism of happy lovers that is just so darn... well, cute” - Nightlife Magazine

“Honest, sexy, earnest and sweet — a catchy collection that will get even the most jaded hipster nodding their head.”

- the Uniter

“If you could combine kisses and hugs with evil spells and ecstatic moans in a time-wasting pen-n-paper game format, you’d have MTL’s hottest electro pop couple, Hexes and Ohs.”

- midnightpoutine.ca

“... from dance party tracks (“H-H-Highschool”) to romantic tunes fit for the bedroom (“Suspicious”). This is a fresh take on a genre that is quickly becoming saturated with mainstream drivel” - Stylus Magazine
